Organization overview

All churches have similar elements that create a healthy organizational culture, but the outcome of each component is very different because leadership styles differ from one church to the other.

We can help your church grow by working with your leadership on the culture of your organization by identifying what is working and what is not.

Get this right, we can help your church increase in membership and community impact. As your church increases in reputation, you will also earn the confidence of donors and volunteers with better retention. Ultimately, we acknowledge that Christ is the Head of His Church.

Your church board, paid staff, volunteers, and entire congregation are positively impacted when there is clarity to organizational culture. We can discuss this further during your 30-minute complimentary review.

Basic Assumptions About Your Organizational Culture

Leadership assumptions about your current church culture may be accurate, slightly off, or inaccurate. Being honest about the state of your organization helps us align who you are, what you do, and how you do it.

We know the success of any church requires clarity of vision and mission with supporting values that enable everyone involved to become effective in ministry.

We can help your church align its vision, mission, and values in such a way that they align with the gospel because we acknowledge the gospel precedes the culture of your organization!

At Cultural Clarity, we want to help you become clearer about your foundational assumptions during your complimentary 30-minute review.

Church Hierarchy and Productivity

Let's be clear, the idea of utopian organization really belongs on the Sci-Fi channel. Stuff happens, so leadership must make decisions to navigate a congregation. Understanding and developing how training and resources flow in a church community is something that we consider essential at Cultural Clarity.

During your 30-minute complimentary review, we will discuss further how timely decisions and resources can function towards greater productivity.

Unique Characteristics Within the Values of your Church Culture

All churches have values whether they are acknowledged or lived out to their fullest. Either way, values have unique characteristics that make your church distinct. For example, all churches want to take care of their members. The distinction is seen in how your church accomplishes this. We want to focus on this distinctive issue with you.

We can help your church congregation understand your churches values and how they align with the gospel by working with you on the culture of your organization – you will be delighted with the result!

Allow us to show you how unique your church really is by working with us on the characteristics within your values. We look forward to exploring this in more detail with you during your complimentary review.

Hiring Practices and Candidate Cultural Fit

It is imperative understand the impact of culture on the front and back door in your church. Who is lining up at your front door wanting to work for you, volunteer, or attend a Sunday service? And who is leaving your church through the back door for another church? People don't always line up or leave because of payroll or opportunity. They are looking for a cultural fit where both of you will flourish.

We can help your church develop a hiring practice designed to identify a cultural fit by working with you on the culture of your church. We can discuss this more during your 30-minute call.

Organizational Skill and Work Alignment

The adage goes, 'square pegs for square holes', but square pegs can adapt to new tasks as your church acclimatizes to new and necessary skills that sustain your growth in the community.

We can help your church adapt to the cultural nuances that pervade society by working with you on the culture of your church – the gospel is for all people everywhere!

Your next step will be examined during your free 30-minute review. We know you won't regret it!

Subcultures in Your Organization

Subcultures impact your organization more than you think. They work for you or against you.

We can help your church recognize subcultures and identify how these cultures can be a productive advantage to your community impact.

We will explore how you can appreciate and utilize subcultures during your free consultation.

Urgency or Leader Decision Making

No matter how many people are involved in the decision-making process, some decisions are meant to be easy, and some are meant to be difficult. Either way, your members can become overly frustrated by the time it takes to decisions.

We can help your church become more effective through delegation, responsibility, and accountability by working with you on the culture of your organization – your members will love you for it!

Schedule your complimentary 30-minute call so we can help you towards great and timely decision making!
